

The World Is an Outward Reflection of an Inward Condition

January 9, 2009

When you believe it, you will see it.

There is no world. There is no sustainable conditional reality. It is changing all the time. It is an outward reflection of an inward condition. How is the world sustained? Guilt! Guilt sustains the world, or the idea that it is not an outward condition of an inner condition or that something else is causing it. In other words; something else is causing it, not me. Come on. I am trying to set the stage for you.

God is the strength in which I trust.

Silence without gratitude is an empty gesture. Gratitude is the key component in the translation. Listen, I am not a big fan of the words but sometimes they help. Translation is not negation. Translation is realization. Nothing is negated. The world is an outer reflection of an inward condition, there is nothing to negate. What can be negated? That is a realization. I am grateful for the reflection because it reveals to me my inner state. There is nothing to negate. I look and see. My eyes are open. We stand for a moment in love, this is that instant. I love, I love, I love.

This translation, which is occurring by Grace, is very subtle now. In that subtlety the demand upon God is a profound disturbance. I understand the gesture. I understand. "Father, release me of this burden", yes.

The response is: "I already have. I have already released you of the burden, the door is open." Come on, the door is open. Now I understand that this is a profoundly sensitive disposition, the allowance that it is accomplished.

Everything in you is saying there is something that still needs to occur. The answer is: "It is accomplished."

The thing, that thing that is not satisfied, the denial of the accomplishment, is called the ego, the observer. The thing that does not hear "it is accomplished", that thing is the ego. You are looking right at it: "I don't want that thing any more. That thing is the profound disturbance"

Do you see why gratitude is so important? It is the mood of the translation. Without it, nothing is accomplished. Why? Without it the accomplishment is denied. Now being grateful and being satisfied are two completely different ideas. I am not saying you should be satisfied, I am saying you should be grateful.

I am here with you and I understand wholly.

I had a story. A story just like you. I remember, being at the Academy around Christmas saying: “fuck this”, another Christmas at the academy, fuck this ! I am so done with this, I can't bear it! I can't bear another Christmas being here. It all seemed so fabricated, every day feels like a fabrication. So I understand. I wasn't satisfied. I went off and found a place for a very long time. I sat in silence, I argued with God, i waved my pistol toward heaven.

Nothing I did brought about any results. When it happened, it happened spontaneously for no reason at all. It happened because “it is accomplished.” Everything I did was totally insignificant. All the teaching, everything; insignificant!

My mind was sufficiently purified or trained to recognize Grace, so that when it showed up I said: “YES.” That was it. Just as your mind is now sufficiently purified to recognize Grace. You recognize the Grace when you see it. Your exposure to Grace allows you to recognize it and say yes to Grace.

The truth is, and now I will step it up and talk from outside the frame, the truth is I don't know, I don't know! The answer to your question is I don't have a fucking idea. I am standing by, just as you are. It is up to God. I am here on behalf of God. I don't know the answer to your question. I don't know, God only knows! But I am satisfied with that and I am grateful.

I am not doing anything. I can't do anything. Every time I tried to do it, the attempt in itself was my attempt to storm the gates of heaven. Everybody see me, can you see me? That is what I did. I gathered you all up and I stormed the gates. Everybody is laughing. Thank you.

It is not up to me. No more that it is up to you. It is up to God.

I am a pretty good guide. But I am the sort of guide that gets muddy, I get dirty. I don't walk on the mud, I sink into it. For me it is a form of ecstasy I enjoy it. That is how I found you! It is just around the bend, it is just a little further. We are nearly there. It is like a game that I play. I know well in my mind that we are already there. Yes?

When you have an idea that there is some where to go, I pretend along with you and I say “it is just around the next bend, I promise you.” Until you are relaxed sufficiently to realize that we are already there. The Old man used to teach it as: Your crown is already open. Nothing needs to occur. Your crown is opened, because my crown is opened. The light is pouring in. I love you.

Remember we are just talking about frequencies of consciousness. There is no world, there is no body. There is no opposition. It is all just illusions generated by a frequency of consciousness. What frequency? The frequency that denies the accomplishment! It is a frequency, that insist that something still need to occur. That is generating a world.

It is an illusion. It is an illusion, it is not a world. It is accomplished. That is all you have to remember. That is all I want to teach from now on. I don't want to teach anything else. IT IS ACCOMPLISHED. There is nothing to be done about it. It is already accomplished.

Father... father. It is the same as saying: “I don't know the way to you, but you know, here I am. That is a disposition. That is perfect trust. In other words, there is no way to come to God and say: “where are you, where are you?” You can't come to God like that, because that is a denial that He is already here. You can not come to God that way. You must come in gratitude, in the acknowledgment or recognition that He is already here. He found me where I am. It is the first thing I saw. When the energy awoke in me, the first thing I saw was Oh shit, God found me right here in this place, in this formulation.

When? When I was sufficiently grateful, when I was prepared! Do you see it? Good, good, good.

I don't want to get up every morning any more than any of you, trust me. I am lying in bed, I am so happy, I don't want to get up. It is cold....

You know what gets me out of bed? Your gratitude gets me out of bed. Yes or no? I love you, thank you. It is immediate.

The truth of me is that I don't want to stay here. What keeps me here? Your gratitude! It takes shape, yes? But I am not fooled by the shape, I recognize it as a form of gratitude. I love you for that.

That is not to say that there is no value in making the demands upon your self. Make the demands, by all means. "I can't do this anymore ; Father, I need your help with this." Recognize that the answer has been given already in a form that you can receive. Always, always it has been given: Father thank you, father thank you for this response, for the immediacy of this response."

Do you know what? When you reach the threshold, you are no longer upset when something goes wrong. The correction is immediate and rather than justifying what went wrong, you simply accept the correction. That is all. You don't think about it, you don't look at it, you just know that the correction has been made and then what? A second later it translates into the formulation. That is what it means to be at the threshold. Do you see what I mean what I just said? You are not wasting time examining the problem; you are accepting the immediacy of the illusion. Bingo!, you are at the threshold. It is always immediate.

You then observe the figures changing around you and you laugh because you recognize; "I am the source of all these".

My advise to you at this frequency, I am speaking as an awakened mind, my advise is don't argue with yourself, don't argue with God, don't argue with anyone! Smile and know it is accomplished.

I turned on the news this morning, everyone is arguing with each other about the Middle East. They asked me to vote in the United Nations. When I voted, I just smiled and said "It is accomplished". Certainly not by anything that we are doing! It is accomplished because this is ridiculous. That problem (the middle east) is the same problem that you are having. It is not different. It is resolved in the same way; "I have no idea how to awaken, that is ridiculous. I need help." I can smile and say: It is accomplished.

The only way that I can awaken is: It is accomplished. This is a good place to be; It is accomplished! No pain, no suffering, no sickness, no crucifixion, It is accomplished, it is accomplished. Do you see? It is the instant of transition. Your attention is fixed on the instant prior to the problem. Yes or no? Come on. I am just showing you the disposition that is necessary. It is called an opened crown.

When is your crown opened? When you are fixed on the solution! Where is the solution? Above your head! Once you drop into your body, there is no solution. If you stay above your head, there is only the solution. I can teach it as: fix your attention above your crown. That is another way of saying: Don't make the problem real. There is no problem, it's an illusion; "There is no problem, it's an illusion and I am not going to make it real. I will accept the solution; it is accomplished, and I am going to live there".

Every time the temptation arises; "I have no need of this, this is useless, it does not serve me". My whole meditation is: This is useless. It does not serve me. It is not serving me. It is not serving me to complain, it is not serving me to argue, it is not serving me! It doesn't feel good.

The solution has been giving me by grace, and I am going to accept it. I am going to live there, to reside there, along with those reflections of that intention. Thank you. I am happy to be here with you.

Where am I? I am with myself, in the resolution, and this is what it looks like; a final dream, a final cycle, a final image, a final hologram. What better place is there to be?

I am not asking you to be satisfied. I am asking you to be grateful. Don't be satisfied with my explanation, just be grateful, that you have been giving a glimpse of the resolution, and more and more, increasingly, you are able to associate with that glimpse until it becomes vision. Vision is that glimpse all of the time.

I told you, the ordeal, if you want to know what the ordeal is, the ordeal is inconsistency. Once you become consistent, the ordeal is over. I taught it yesterday: Truth is truth always, in every circumstance. Truth will always be truth and everything else will be an illusion. That is consistency.

Inconsistency is; there is something other than truth. That is an ordeal, now you have something to overcome, and that can take a long time.

Remember, if you see a problem, you are just, looking at the wrong direction. Try not to make to big a deal, instead turn and face the light. The illusions will disappear when that becomes a consistent gesture. There is no place for them to formulate because you are not given them your attention. Your attention is very fertile ground, God.

Thank you, thank you Father because in you it is accomplished. This dream is being generated by Him. This is the accomplishment, what it looks like, like this provision, or like any provision. Who cares? I don't care. The least I want is to draw attention to this provision. Honestly I am not drawing attention. I don't want anyone to come here. I don't want an ashram. I am drawing attention to God. I don't care what it looks like!

This is all transit, "Father how can I serve?" That is all you have to remember to be grateful and happy. This too shall pass. I am just passing by.

I am just demonstrating my own awakening, which I never left. I have been awakening since my awakening. There is nothing else to do. You almost saw that. It is a matter of attention. If I think something else is going on, something else is going on: a world of sickness, death, guilt.

Wait a minute...I know better. That is not what is happening. What is happening? Everything is being solved or forgiven, in one instant of reconciliation, of awakening. Now I can breathe, that is what is really going on, the world is an illusion. I love you and I am really grateful to be here with you.

In my position, listen, I recognize the absurdity of the necessity for the reflection to speak those words. I recognize it is unnecessary to project reflections of thoughts that are already in my mind. Do you see what I am saying? I recognize that that is unnecessary and yet I am in the joyful recognition that I am among thoughts in my own mind that are transitioning. I look right at Daryl and I see, I recognize my own voice.

Why would I reject it even though I know it is absurd that some one else is speaking my words, that is ridiculous. Why am I doing that? And the answer is: I am not doing anything, God is doing everything! I am in the joyful recognition of that. I am waking up, and you are waking up along with me. Of course! That is why I am here. Did that get through? That was really important to express. Because I want you to see, I know this is a game. The Old Man used to say: I am just a performer. I am a charlatan. I know I am a charlatan, I am a liar, in other words. This is all a lie and it is all unnecessary, and yet it is a picture of the resolution. When I fix my attention there, makes me very, very happy. This picture has been given me by God. Everyone is here. Thank you. I am glad you are here.

You can go into isolation, sit alone and call upon God. That is essentially what I did, but you still run into, or encounter, the thoughts in your own mind, just like this I promise you. You are transitioning alone in your cave and it will appear, just as subtle as this, and you will have to look at it and accept responsibility. Even if you are alone in the cave, it is not different than this. I am just offering that to you.

You always encounter those thoughts, and they become brighter as you accept responsibility. That is my whole teaching. Jesus is laughing. It is called the atonement. That is what the atonement principle is: I am responsible for this state. Good, now you are in the transitional frequency along with Jesus. Father, all of these, are yours.

You may want to read the last paragraphs of the text. Jesus speaks exactly this. Father, here they are, the thoughts you have asked me to gather, they belong to you. I love you...

Do you want to wait around with me for just a moment. I think we have someone else coming in. Sema. Look at Sema. Where the hell did Sema come from? She came from no where. I would wait a thousand years for Sema! Why? Sema is what you call a sure thing. She will come. The moment I saw her, I recognized it. I have no problem in waiting for her. None at all, because I know she is coming. Can you hear me a little bit? The joy of that accomplishment can't be expressed. She is beautiful. I love her. She is sitting in her cave, doing everything she can, in order to avoid it. But it is too late! She is hooked.

That is what we are doing by holding this frequency. We are putting out a call. Guys, that is what we do. What can I tell you? You signed up for the mission. You showed up, I am not making any demands on you to stay here. How do I know I am not making any demands on you? Because I don't want to be here. That is how I know. See if you can hear me a little bit? I am only here on His behalf. I am here performing a service, and it is working. Ok? That is pretty good explanation of all of that. Thank you.

You will yet reach a point in consciousness where you won't want to leave anyone behind. And I mean that literally. Wherever there is a hope that someone will hear you, you will rush out to find that one. There is no greater joy than to serve God in His plan. Very happy to get up in the morning! Maybe not so much to get out of bed...

Here is my thought: Let's move the whole operation to Hawaii. What do you think? I had no idea it was this cold in Spain. Jordi told me that he wanted to buy a house in Hawaii. Why do you think I have been saying Hawaii?

It is true. You are going to be serving no matter where you are. We will very quickly turn the "Creperie" into a million dollar business. We've got six months. Next winter we are off to warmer environment. Just kidding! Not another Christmas, por favor!

Guys I love you I am really glad to be here with you. Thank you. You look beautiful. You look as bright as can be. You are all shinning. Happy days are back!
